FOURTH DISTRICT LIBRARY ASSOCIATION MEETING AT LONG BEACH.

The second meeting of the Fourth District California Library Association met at Long Beach on Friday, September 28th, and was cordially welcomed by the Rev. Charles Pease, president of the Long Beach library board of trustees and also pastor of the Congregational Church, in which edifice the sessions of the assembly were held. Miss Antionette Humphries, librarian of the A. K. Grinley public library of Redlands and president of the Fourth District, responded very pleasingly.

The calling of the roll by Miss Sara M. Jacobus, secretary of the organization and librarian of Pomona public library, showed a very satisfactory representation from the cities of Southern California, which comprise this district.

An interesting and helpful program was presented, a few papers from which was a most important one on reference work in the children's room by Miss Jeanette McFadden, librarian of Santa Ana and hostess of the last district meeting held at that place. A talk much appreciated was that by Miss Bedinger, librarian of Bakersfield, who was sojourning at Long Beach and who gave a practical demonstration of her subject—receiving books. Miss Field of Orange Library gave a most exhaustive paper on repairing books.

The assembly awaited with especial interest the introduction of Charles F. Lummis, who had recently returned from the meeting of the American Library Association at Narragansett Pier. Upon Mr. Lummis' motion the Fourth District California Library Association adopted a resolution inviting the American Library Association to Los Angeles for its next meeting, which if accepted will mean much to this coast.

Simultaneously with this meeting a short separate session was held by the library trustees present, in which they profitably discussed questions pertaining to their important positions.

Immediately preceding the noon adjournment for a delicious hot dinner elegantly served in another part of the church edifice by the Ivy Leaf Club and provided by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Miller, in behalf of that splendid organization, extended a hearty invitation to the visitors to take a trip to the magnificent breakwater being constructed by the government at a cost of several millions of dollars at San Pedro and destined to figure largely in the already broad and progressive development of Long Beach.

The efforts of the Chamber of Commerce would seem to have been adequately appreciated judging from the apparent and expressed enjoyment of those who accepted the invitation.

During the noon hour the delegates were led by Miss Ellis, the hostess of the day, who is the thoroughly equipped librarian of Long Beach, to the public library occupying the second floor of the city hall. Especially interesting in this large, airy, well-lighted library was the children's corner, well supplied with excellent juvenile books.

Full of interest was a Fremont bulletin containing maps, photographs and pictures loaned by Miss Fremont, the picture of the flag carried by Gen. Fremont among the Indians and recognized by them from Hudson's bay to the Gulf of Mexico.

Miss Ellis is popular and original and the only librarian in Southern California using the highly authorized Brown system of charging.

Glendale was represented at this education gathering by the president and secretary of the Glendale library board of trustees.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS.

In last week's issue of our paper special mention was made of the comfortable homes in course of erection, or completed, in Lomita Park.

Other portions of our city show equal growth. In looking over the Jones' Home Place, four completed homes and the fifth nearing completion, add much to C street, between First and Second. The first of these homes owned by L. C. Wardell, presents a most attractive appearance. The style is of the bungalow type, the base being built of concrete blocks. The interior is handsomely decorated, the work of a local artist.

The home built and occupied by Garfield Jones, a two-story building, is commodious and complete in all its details. The large living room is ideal.

The Strang cottage has a most pleasing effect in its cobble stone work in the fireplace and outside porch. The electric light fixtures form another interesting feature of this home.

On the corner of C and Second stands the home of A. K. Crawford and wife. This beautiful home commands a complete survey of the surrounding country and for picturesque scenery it would be difficult to find its equal. The interior is finished in yellow pine and every modern improvement and clever device is worked out in the finishings.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Crawford will occupy their home this month.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Pack's new home is the one nearly completed on C street. It will be "The Priory"—the name chosen for their home wherever it may be located.

This home has much stone work used in its construction giving it a substantial as well as artistic appearance. The house has eight rooms with all modern conveniences and will be ready for occupancy about the latter part of the month.

CITY TRUSTEES.

City Trustees met in regular session Wednesday evening, Oct. 3, all members being present.

Demands: No. 61, G. B. Woodberry, $3.60 for gravel; No. 62, S. Grant, $14 for team work; No. 63, Verdugo Water Co., $17.16, were read, and on motion, allowed.

Trustee Fanset reported that he had consulted with Chief Engineer Pillsbury of the Pacific Electric railroad with regard to the railroad improving a certain part of Fourth street, where the company's track now lies, and Mr. Pillsbury signified willingness to make the improvements providing the city would grant the company a franchise along said street. On motion the report was accepted and committee discharged.

Superintendent Simpson of the Sanitarium asked permission to remove dirt from J street, where there was a high place, so that the grade might be made more uniform. On motion permission was granted.

On motion the city attorney was authorized to draw up resolutions ordering the improving of Glendale avenue as to grade sidewalks and curbs. The chair appointed a committee consisting of the chair, Trustees Watson and Jennings and the city attorney, and requested C. E. Stanley to act in conjunction with the committee to consult with the Salt Lake railroad people in regard to improving along their right of way.

On motion, the city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance in regard to licensing dogs in Glendale.

City Tax and License Collector J. C. Sherer reported $97 in licenses remaining unpaid and only a short time remains for payment of these licenses.

R. A. Blackburn made application for permission to construct curbs and walks on Orange Grove avenue, Fifth street and Sixth street, the walk to be four feet in width, to conform with walks already laid on these streets.

On motion, permission was granted. The matter of deeding Verdugo road for street car purposes was reported on by E. D. Goode, who said that everything was in shape and the matter would be submitted to the property owners for final action next week.

CLUB MEETING.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club will hold their first meeting of the autumn session in the I. O. O. F. Hall, Tuesday next, October 9th, at 2:30 p. m.

It is hoped that all members will be present and enjoy a "Social Afternoon" in charge of Mrs. E. W. Pack, D. W. Hunt, C. B. Guenthart and J. M. Banker.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our deepest gratitude to all who so kindly assisted at the death and burial of our beloved and only daughter.

M. C. Haddock and Family,
Toluca, Cal.

ONE OF THE FINEST.

The well known real estate firm of Wright & Callender of Los Angeles have purchased and subdivided the beautiful orange and lemon grove tract located on "A" between Fifth and Sixth streets, and the lots are now on sale by R. A. Blackburn, resident agent. The placing of this property on the market is the natural outgrowth of the sale and improvement of property in its near vicinity during the past few months. This tract is covered with 15-year-old navel orange and lemon trees in full bearing and at the low price lots are being held the entire tract will no doubt be sold within a very short time. This tract is close to McIntyre's Miner tract, where some of Glendale's finest residences have been erected during the past six months. A street is one of the most picturesque streets in Glendale and Wrightland, the new subdivision, is an ideal location for fine home sites. Cement curbs and walks are to be put down as soon as possible.

Billie Hammel is such a universal favorite that he was given the compliment of indorsement by both the Democrat and Republican parties. Billie deserves the indorsement of every good citizen, as he is intelligent, honest and upright.

A master hand is needed at the helm in supervising the schools of Los Angeles county. Mark Keppel has proven himself worthy and capable and every voter should turn out on election day and express his approval of Mr. Keppel's able and just administration by voting to retain him for another term. Keppel is the right man in the right place and don't you forget it.

This office is adding new type and new machinery to its equipment and as we have secured the services of an expert job printer, our patrons can be sure of securing the very best of job work promptly and at reasonable prices. We make a specialty of wedding invitations, ball programs and all commercial work that is turned out by a first-class job printing establishment. You will be better satisfied with our work than you will if you take your work to the city. We guarantee all work. Give us a trial.

Mr. William Randolph Hearst was nominated for governor of New York on the Democratic ticket and the Hearst newspapers are devoting more space in telling of the greatness of William than they are to giving the news. It begins to look as though Mr. Hearst has determined to run for office as long as there is an office to run for. If Mr. Hearst will only let a suffering public know just what office he will be satisfied with and then quit running, we believe the people would give him the office to get him to quit running.

Don't go to Los Angeles to buy your dry goods, groceries, drugs, meats, lumber, baked goods, furniture, ice cream and confectionery, real estate, hardware, plumbing fixtures, electric fixtures and don't go there to hire your livery, have your tinning or printing done when you can get all these things right at home. If you live here and own property, it is to your own best interest to patronize the home institutions. And don't go trotting off to town to deposit your money when we have two good banks right here at home that will accommodate you in a reasonable way. Don't expect the town to grow unless you do your share. You are personally responsible for its future.

There are many farmers throughout Southern California who "swear by" the Los Angeles Times, but those farmers in the San Fernando Valley who used to "swear by" the Times, are now "swearing at" the Times, or they are so disgusted with the thing that they have not language with which to express their contempt for it. The Times, like one Mulholland, has reversed itself in regard to the water litigation between Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley. It seems a little strange too that the Times should seek to injure the valley when Col. Otis and Harry Chandler both own large holdings in realty in the valley. Possibly these gentlemen wish to purchase some more cheap land.

The Los Angeles Examiner is forever blowing about exposing rottenness and corruption in political parties, railroads, and trusts, but it stands idly by and allows the dirty tricksters of Los Angeles rob the people of the San Fernando Valley without the Examiner saying one word in exposing the dirty work.

The only paper in Los Angeles which has the courage to expose the dirty work of Mulholland and his gang, is the Evening News, and it is becoming more popular as it shows the rascals up. Editor Clover is a thorough newspaper man and he has the courage to speak out for the right and he does not swerve from the right even when he is offered for contempt by the courts. Clover may be wrong in his fight against the Owens river proposition, but he certainly is right regarding the fight between Los Angeles and the ranchers of the San Fernando Valley.

We often wonder if those people who are so long on advice, especially when it comes to advising others to invest money in business enterprises, where there is little show of profit to the investor, would ever regret having advised their victim when he meets with reverses. If a man succeeds, he has lots of friends, but if he fails there are few who will lend a helping hand. The mischief-maker is the man with an oily tongue and a suave manner, and he is the kind of fellow that will pat you on the back with one hand while he robs you with the other. Yes, this fellow is the man who sneaks around in the absence of an employer and tries to injure his business by prying into private affairs of business and then peddling lies about the parties he seeks to injure. Do you know this fellow? Well he is the fellow that imitates the serpent by covering his victim all over with saliva before he proceeds to swallow him.

A New Version

A clergyman happened to tell his son one Saturday afternoon what lesson he would read in church the next morning. The boy got hold of his father's Bible, found the lesson's place, and glued together the connecting pages.

In consequence the clergyman read to his flock the following day that "when Noah was 120 years old, he took unto himself a wife, who was" here he turned the page—"140 cubits long, 40 cubits wide, built of gopher wood, and covered with pitch in and out."

After reading the passage, the clergyman read it again to verify it. Then, pushing back his spectacles, he looked gravely at the congregation and said:

"My friends, this is the first time I ever read that in the Bible, but I accept it as evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

The glorious sunset that was witnessed from Glendale Sunday afternoon was a sight of magnificent splendor. The sun's rays shone through the clouds that hung over the Griffith Park hills in such a manner as to cause the western sky to appear as if it was on fire, and the reflection shone on the clouds in the eastern horizon, giving them a beautiful old rose tint and the sight was so grand that the moon arose in the east and peeped through the tinted clouds at the glory of the sun. No artist ever lived who could have painted a true picture of this magnificent sight.

It may be all right for people to take roomers in their private homes, but there are two sides to this question. If every family in Glendale takes in roomers at a price much lower than the hotel can afford to take them, how can Glendale expect to support a hotel? Hotel people, as a general rule, are enterprising, and this is true of the management of the Glendale Hotel. The Glendale Hotel is nicely furnished and supplied with all modern conveniences and is a credit to our city and our people should support it and also all the other creditable institutions of the town.

Complete Equipment.

C. Gahnal Lumber Co. report lime and cement house completed, and have this week unloaded two cars of cement, one car of lime and one car of Angelus plaster. All these goods were bought at right prices and can be sold in quantities at a very low rate.

They also report having completed a sash and door room, where all stock sizes of sash and doors are now in stock.

They report a special drive in screen doors at $1.25 a piece—the best value for the money ever offered in Southern California.

NIGHT WANDERERS.

Much complaint has been heard recently about horses and other stock being allowed to run at large at night, doing much damage. Mrs. Mary Walters complains that she has had her garden destroyed twice by loose horses.

As a matter of fact, no one wants his or her garden destroyed and it will behoove the owners of live stock to see that they are carefully secured for the night.

SKATING PARTY.

A number of Burbank's young folks made a jolly party at the skating rink Wednesday evening. Messrs. Fletcher Pomeroy, Harry Hixon, Harry Easton, Clyde Ogier, Robert Clugage, Earl Robinson, Alonzo Jones and Misses Cora Myers, Gladys Myers, Sadie Easton and Miss June Lutge were among the party.

Mr. Frank Brown of the east is visiting his sister, Miss Fannie Ayers of this place.

Miss Kross and Miss Day of Los Angeles visited at the "Bide-a-Wee" cottage Tuesday evening.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church will give an ice cream social at Logan Hall this evening.

Next Wednesday the ladies of the Womans' Relief Corps will give an all day rag bee in the G. A. R. hall from 9 to 5 o'clock.

Miss Fannie Marple entertained Misses Ethel and Grace Packard and Mr. David of Los Angeles at her home on Walnut St., Wednesday evening.

One of the leading social events of the past week was the party tendered by Mrs. D. H. Imler and Miss Cora Hickman at Palm Villa Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Tropic Thursday Afternoon Club, complimentary to Mrs. Imler's cousin, Mrs. Frances Davidson and Miss Edna Davidson, of Joliet, Ill. Part of the home was very tastily arrayed with a profusion of pink and white roses and greenery, while the dining room was decorated with crimson roses. The feature of the afternoon was the magazine contest in which Mrs. W. A. Thompson captured first prize and Mrs. L. C. Rice the consolation prize. During the afternoon a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. Imler and Miss Hickman were assisted in serving by Mrs. Joseph Webster and Miss Harriet Meyers. Among the guests were: Mesdames Chas. Murry, H. H. Davenport, W. A. Hough, Morris Schick, C. R. Carmack, W. A. Thompson, L. C. Rice, H. E. Brewster, Ed. Ayers, A. O. Conrad, Wm. Malcom, John Kirkham, Collins and H. S. Todd, of Colorado Springs.

Wednesday evening, Mrs. D. H. Imler entertained a company of friends at Palm Villa. Progressive games were played in which Mrs. E. K. Daniels won first prize and Miss Mildred Ayres the consolation prize. Mr. E. K. Daniels won the gentleman's first prize and Ray Borthick the consolation prize. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Dan Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Daniels, Dr. and Mrs. Bryant, Misses Carrie Botts, Mildred Ayers, Ida M. Waite, Mary Doyle, M. Ogden Ryan, Freda Borthick; Messrs R. Z. Imler, Chas. Moser, Ray Borthick, Chas. M. Lund, O. P. Snyder, H. M. Hurd. A dainty luncheon was served on small tables which were prettily decorated with flowers.

Pleasant Evening

A very pleasant social event was the party given by Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Burch introducing their granddaughter, Miss Gertrude Wagner, of Denver, Colorado, at their home "The Twin Pines," on Park Ave. Thursday evening.

The house was prettily decorated with the rare La France rose and greenery while Japanese lanterns were artistically hung about the rooms.

During the evening Miss Wagner rendered a number of vocal and instrumental solos which were greatly enjoyed by the guests. Miss Wagner possesses a splendid natural voice which by careful training under the leading masters of the east, has developed into a voice which one seldom hears except in the high musical circles. And although quite young Miss Wagner is an artist at the piano. The ease and grace with which she plays proves that her musical education has been of the highest class. While visiting here she will study with the best teachers in Los Angeles.

After listening to this talented young lady the guests were served with dainty refreshments. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ayres, Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Burch, of Los Angeles, Misses Orpha Sherwood, Dot Harding, Dr. Bates, Myrtle Harrison; Messrs Hal Harding, Archie Harrison and Albert Marple.

Delightful Evening at the Pool-room

The Japanese pool-room at Tropic was the scene of a grand roundup last Sunday night and Pat Devine was the roundman. It was this way: Pat went into the hall and asked for some oysters, which are on sale at that place, and the Jap in charge refused to sell him any, and, as Pat was about six reefs in, he didn't like to be treated like that by a "Heathen Jap," as he calls them, so he began jollyng the brown boy who came from behind the counter and politely patted Pat in the jaw. Pat didn't like to get all the patting, so he patted the Jap for a change and stood calmly looking on while the dusky boy's comrades carried him into the back room. Another "Heathen" sneaked up behind Pat and planted him one on the back of the head with a pool cue and the Irish went down, only to get up again before the count and he started after them 'ere Japs, thirty in number—this is where Pat's baseball training came in, for while everyone of the brave(?) Japs made for the door he stood half way up the hall shying pool balls, and he delivered the goods so fast that the Japs knew it wasn't a Russian behind the gun. When all the Japs had flown Brother Devine went to the front door and invited the "boys" to come in and play. He held the fort from five-thirty until nine o'clock in the evening when Otto Brouse, the constable, gently led him home. One Jap fired three shots at Pat but they didn't seem to phase him any for he kept right after them. One of the Japs said: "Other men, you shoot at 'em they run, but he all time keep come on." None of the Japs returned to the hall that evening but requested Mr. Jennings to close up shop. Thomas, the Jap that fired at Pat said, "I no stay in Tropic, I go back to Japan."

What do you think the score would have been had the Japs had the United States to deal with instead of the Russians?

Misses McFadden and Story Entertain.

On Tuesday evening of last week Misses McFadden and Story gave a most delightful party at the home of the former on West Fourth street.

The rooms were artistically decorated and the dining table was loaded down with good things to eat, to which justice was done by the merry crowd. About twenty-five young people were present.

Mrs. H. M. Overton and Dr. Burt won the first two prizes in progressive Nilo.

Miss Randall, first prize in guessing contest, while Dr. Burt received the consolation.

Mrs. Overton carried off first prize in the Observation contest. Mr. Greenwood received the "Booby."

All had a splendid time and it was well along toward the small hours of the morning before the merry party broke up.

WEBSTER-LOVEJOY NUPTIALS.

In the presence of about twenty-five friends, a very pretty wedding occurred Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newhall at Lomita Park, when Miss Blanche Lovejoy was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Webster, Rev. C. R. Norton officiating. Mr. Glen Sexton acted as best man and Miss Alice Newhall was bridesmaid.

After the ceremony a bounteous supper was served.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster will reside in Glendale in their new home in the Valley View Tract.

BACK FROM LAKE TAHOE.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Pack returned last Friday from Lake Tahoe where they spent a most enjoyable vacation. They give glowing descriptions of the lake and surrounding country.

The forests of pine, numerous lakes, hidden away in the mountains to which access is gained by riding or driving, the many resorts all around the lake—all combine to make it an ideal pleasure resort.

They report good catches of trout on their fishing trips on the lake, one morning's catch being seventeen—and a day's outing brought in thirty-three fine specimens of the finny tribe.

They anticipate another trip next summer, with a jolly party of Glendale friends.

MISS WAITE ENTERTAINS.

Miss Ida Waite entertained a number of her friends Friday evening at her home on Third street and Glendale avenue. The parlors were artistically decorated for the occasion and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Coker, Mr. and Mrs. Hartsough, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Dr. McGee, Dr. Reed, Dr. Hurtt, Mr. Baldwin of Los Angeles, M. A. Rogers of Pomona, Miss R. Byram, Miss Balyntyne, Tropico, Miss Harnett, Long Beach, and Mrs. I. Strong.

BUYS BUSINESS IN GLENDALE.

J. E. Johnson, who for six years has been with Heath & Morrison, has purchased a drug store in Glendale, a fast growing town, eight miles north of Los Angeles. Mr. Johnson will be sorely missed by a large circle of friends, for he has made his home in Riverside since his arrival from the East, six years ago. Mr. Johnson will go to take charge of his new business as soon as his present position can be filled.—Riverside Press.

In honor of the eighth birthday of little Dorothy Hunt, a delightful party was given her last Saturday afternoon at her home. Games of all kinds were played on the lawn, and the happy voices of the children, proved the poet's song when he wrote:

Why do children laugh so gay?

Tell me why.

'Tis because their hearts have play In their bosoms every day.

When the supper hour arrived Mrs. E. W. Pack and C. A. Weidenfeller who were assisting Mrs. Hunt, marched the happy crowd into the dining room to the strains of a gleeful march, played by Miss Wells.

The dining room was beautifully decorated in pink; wide ribbons were looped from the chandelier to the corners of the table, where on the damask were strewn pink roses, and the feathery fronds of the asparagus plumosus fern.

The table appointments were dainty pieces of china and crystal, such that delight the children's sense of beauty, while in the center of the table stood a huge birthday cake, lighted by eight little pink candles.

The refreshments were enjoyed by the little folk, whose appetites are always keen.

Passing out of the dining room they caught a glimpse of the table containing many pretty gifts, which had been brought or sent to the little hostess.

When the afternoon was far spent, fourteen little girls, very reluctantly bade farewell to their little playmate, wishing her very many happy returns of her birthday.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made its arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and Glendale News together for one year for $2.15.

The general officers desire to meet with the local societies occasionally, in order to bring them into touch with the growing work.

The ladies who will meet the Glendale Society are Mrs. R. W. Cleland, president; Mrs. Murray M. Harris, secretary; Mrs. F. M. Dimmick, treasurer; and perhaps some of the Department secretaries; and the time will be Friday, October 12, at 2:30 p.m. The place in the home of Mrs. Harris, corner Third and C street.

These services will be held weekly for several weeks, and the public is cordially invited to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear one of the foremost Bible teachers of this country on some of the most important subjects that can be considered. The topic of the first lecture is "Man a Failure, Fallen and Falling."

Wet Items Dryly Told by Kekil.

Serving of the injunctions has set some people to thinking, and when the people begin to think then look out, Bill.

According to the "expert" wind-jammer the Los Angeles river gained 300 inches the first day after the ranchers stopped pumping (but they never stopped); but that's only one of Hot Air Billie's explosions.

The ranchers found it absolutely necessary to continue pumping to save Los Angeles from being wiped off the face of the earth by one of the biggest floods its history has ever known, for a gain of 300 inches per day would soon do the work.

Los Angeles wants us to vote $910,000 to help decorate the town in shape of an enlarged court house, detention home and a couple of hundred extra cells on the jail to accommodate the San Fernando Valley ranchers that are pumping water to be able to get a living out of their own soil. Let's turn the bond issue down. What say you. Think on this, too.

One rancher, after reading the injunction, said to the gentleman serving: "This says I own the land and Los Angeles owns the water. Now, I don't want anything that don't belong to me and I am going to pump their water out of my land. I won't have it in there at all." Now that's a pretty good point, too. Isn't it?

A Destructive Fire.

A good deal of excitement was caused here on Sunday afternoon at about 3:30 when H. C. Hayes' barn and house and Dr. Thompson's barn were burned to the ground. Bennie, the small son of Mr. Hayes, struck a match and accidentally threw it on some hay near the barn. The barn was in flames before Mr. Hayes could reach it, and as there is no fire department at Burbank and everything being exceedingly dry, it was impossible to save the buildings. Mr. Hayes' horses and cow were turned out, but the horses were burnt seriously about the head. By an oversight, one of Dr. Thompson's horses, which he had been keeping in Mr. Hayes' barn, was burned to death. Mr. Hayes lost all his farming implements, buggies and over $100 worth of hay. The household furniture, except a book case and stove, was saved. While Mr. Hayes' house was burning Dr. Thompson's barn caught fire and was destroyed. Dr. Thompson had been enlarging his barn and had it filled with hay, which was lost with other things. Mr. Hayes' house, furniture and barn were insured, but Dr. Thompson's property was a total loss as he carried no insurance. Mr. Hayes was seriously burned on the face and hands.

Mr. Hayes and family will live in the Kirkpatrick house for the present, but he intends building later on.

Gas Company to Commence Work at Once.

In this issue of The News will be found a call for bids for laying gas pipes in Glendale for the Southern California Gas Circuit Co. This company was organized some time since and is capitalized for a sum sufficient to not only put in a system at Glendale but other Southern California towns as well.

Mr. Mock, secretary for the company, in conversation with the editor of The News, said that the company was commencing operations in Glendale first because of the rapid growth of the town and the prospects for its rapid growth in the near future—in other words, Mr. Mock believes that Glendale is to be a second Pasadena, and the town's location and the activity in realty and building well justify his prediction. There are other towns of more compact population than Glendale that would have given the company a quicker return on the money invested in installing the system, but gas companies are not investing for a small return for a short time, but for the big returns that the development of future years is sure to bring, and that is why the company selected Glendale in preference to other towns that wanted gas.

J. F. McIntyre, our substantial fellow townsman, is to be a director of the company and one other director will be elected from Glendale.

All parties who expect to use gas should not delay in signing up for it, as no one will have to pay until they obtain the service, and by signing up now they will be able to have service pipes put in at the time the street improvements are made and the main pipes laid, thereby saving considerable expense.

Sagamore Hills.

This property is situated south of Tenth street on the Verdugo Road and overlooks Glendale and Eagle Rock. The soil in this tract is a sandy loam—no adobe and no wash and the location is an ideal one for the building of beautiful homes, as the view is something grand. This tract is only a few minutes ride from Los Angeles over the Eagle Rock electric line and the Verdugo Park electric road, which is a certainty for the very near future, will pass through the western part of the tract where it now has a right-of-way, and this means the yellow car line system, with its transfer privileges. There is an ample supply of pure water for "Sagamore" and its many advantages are sure to attract those who are looking for a beautiful home site or profitable investment. This tract covers an area of about three-fifths of a mile square.

Mr. H. A. Smith, who lives at Verdugo Road and Twelfth street, is the general agent for this property, and those wishing definite and reliable information regarding the tract should call on Mr. Smith or write him care Garvanza R. F. D. No. 1, box 119, or telephone Glendale, Home phone 544.

RAPID GROWTH.

At the opening of the grammar school, 258 pupils were enrolled, as against 183 last year, and new pupils are reported coming in nearly every day.

The eighth grade, numbering 29, is the largest in the history of the school.

If the attendance keeps on increasing, it will be necessary to employ another teacher very soon.

Joseph Henry, of San Francisco, having purchased E. P. McWatty's boot and shoe repairing shop, on Glendale avenue, wishes to announce that he is prepared to do first-class work at reasonable prices.

Which Do You Prefer?

There are two candidates for the assembly from this district—Gideon Case of Pasadena and E. D. Goode of Glendale. Mr. Case, we understand, has been a resident of the district only a comparatively short time and has not resided here a sufficient length of time to acquaint himself with conditions and the needs of the district.

E. D. Goode has been a resident of this district for more than twenty years and besides having served as road overseer under both Republican and Democratic administrations, has a thorough knowledge of the conditions and needs of the district and has taken the lead in every enterprise that has been of benefit to this section. Mr. Goode is honest and thoroughly capable and it is to the district's best interest that he be elected. The election of assemblyman should not be a party affair, but a fair-minded, capable man, such as Mr. Goode has proven to be, should be entrusted with this responsible office.

CITY'S RIGHTS PARAMOUNT.

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—To the Editor: The attitude of the people living inside the corporate limits of this city, when the scarcity of water gradually became apparent several years ago, was very different from that displayed recently by citizens living in the San Fernando valley and outside the city limits. Our city orchardists and farmers saw instinctively that in an arid country, which Southern California is, water for domestic and drinking purposes transcends and takes precedence over all other uses of water whatsoever; and they acquiesced readily in the necessity—inexorable as it was—of abandoning the wasteful methods of irrigation by means of open ditches. In fact, they abandoned their zanjas years ago, as the population both in city and county rapidly increased, and they made up their minds to be content with what water could come to them through three-quarter-inch iron pipes for domestic use.

All this meant the destruction of thousands of acres of oranges and other orchards in the southern and southwestern portions of the city. It meant not merely the loss of an annual crop, but the loss absolutely of valuable orchards which had required from five to eight years of careful and expensive cultivation to bring them to bearing. Did the owners of these valuable and hitherto profitable orchards complain? No! for, as I said, they saw instinctively that the use of water for field irrigation must give way to its use for household purposes by the thousands and the hundreds of thousands of people who were flocking hither to found for themselves homes, either in city or in the country.

Our people saw their orange orchards die in many cases they chopped down their trees, and rented their lands to Chinamen to raise vegetables until finally it became impossible to get water, when they were compelled to let those same lands grow up to weeds.

Did these city orchardists and farmers threaten to kill the zanjero because he shut the water off from the water ditches? Did any single one of them ever defy the law and make wild threats because he was deprived of water to irrigate his lands which he had been accustomed to irrigate, perhaps for years?

The contrast between the course of the city farmers and the farmers living in the San Fernando valley, in the face of a grave situation, is very striking. And this contrast becomes still more striking when the fact is taken into consideration that the waters of the Los Angeles river belong to the city of Los Angeles and to its inhabitants, and not to the people living in the San Fernando valley, although, if the latter would be satisfied with only what they need for household use, as the former found they were obliged to be several years ago, because of the enormous increase of households in recent years in our city and county, there would probably be no cause for quarrel between the two populations.

The trouble is that while the city people recognize the exigencies of the natural situation, the outsiders, like the farmers living up the river, seem to recognize neither the exigencies of the natural nor the legal situation; for the latter situation is essentially based on the former. Spain by long and enlightened experience learned and crystallized into legal enactment the truth that in an arid or semi-arid region the use of water for drinking and household purposes takes precedence over all other purposes; and, moreover, that the legal control of that use must be lodged in some definite authority. Otherwise anarchy would prevail—and we see it would in the exigency which now confronts our people, if up-river farmers may take all the water away from us and others above them may take it away from them—which doctrine, in the last analysis, would most effectively precipitate civil war.

Therefore, Spain ordained that the paramount ownership of rivers or streams running through towns should rest in such municipalities. Thus the pueblo of Los Angeles acquired the paramount ownership of the waters of the Los Angeles river and the city succeeded to all the rights of the pueblo, under the solemn terms of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, and the courts of the United States have repeatedly confirmed those rights.

If these things are true, is it not a shame that the decision of Judge Gibbs, arrived at after months of patient and conscientious investigation, should be flouted and terms of contumely should be applied to him personally, and that a mere executive officer, Mulholland, should be threatened with personal violence?

When the settlers in the San Fernando valley bought their holdings, presumably they must have had their titles passed upon by reputable abstract experts, who certainly must have known the facts of the case and must have put them on their guard as to the ownership of the river by the city.

The San Fernando settlers should not forget that it is not alone one person, one water superintendent, that they have to deal with, but with the whole people of Los Angeles. And the latter are gradually coming to the conclusion, based on recent developments, that it would have been better to have taken drastic measures in regard to San Fernando irrigators at the start, as they did to their own irrigators, especially when they see their tenancy so wantonly abused.

H. D. BARROWS.

A CLEAR STATEMENT OF FACTS.

To the Editor:

May I ask a little space to reply to a letter appearing in this evening's Express, signed by H. D. Barrows?

This gentleman, writing on the San Fernando Valley water question, so utterly distorts the facts, that we are forced to one of two conclusions—either that he is entirely ignorant of the state of the case, or that he is grossly prejudiced, and is seeking to present but one side of it.

In the first place Mr. Barrows, in the whole of his letter, makes it appear that the contest between the city and the ranchers is over the waters in the Los Angeles river itself; carefully avoiding all mention of the fact that instead of that, what the city is endeavoring to do is to stop the ranchers from pumping water from their own wells, they have sunk upon their own lands, some of them miles from the river.

If Mr. Barrows desired to state the matter fairly, should he not have made that fact clear for the information of the many of his readers who have never heard the matter impartially stated; inasmuch as most of the city papers have been either unaccountably silent on the subject or have given only the city's side of it?

The deputies who are now serving the injunctions upon the ranchers are not seeking to restrain them from taking the waters from the stream of the river, for the ranchers are not doing this, but the court's decision, which Mr. Barrows so eloquently eulogizes, forbids their operating their own pumping plants.

Had Mr. Barrows stated this clearly and then said he considered this just, and that the city had a right to the waters under the lands of the ranchers, as well as those of the river, this reply need not have been written; for while we could not have agreed with him at all in this opinion, we should at least have given him credit for stating the matter fairly before giving such an opinion.

Any man is entitled to his own opinion, but he is not entitled to misrepresent facts.

Again, Mr. Barrows draws a comparison between the landholders in the suburbs of Los Angeles a couple of decades or so ago, whom he represents as so magnanimously giving up their irrigating water for the good of the city, and these hoggish San Fernando Valley ranchers who will not yield that upon which their very living depends.

The writer was one of those suburbanites who twenty years ago was irrigating oranges and other crops with the city zanja water, and therefore should know something about that. In the first place the statement that the people gladly gave up the water when the city needed it, and complementarily saw their orchards dry up is not true, for the writer knows that there were many and bitter complaints from those who wished to continue irrigating.

On the other hand, however, in the case of some suburbs, the change came, not because of the shortage of water, but because the rapid growth of the city made it more profitable to cut the property up into city lots served by the "three-quarter inch pipes" which Mr. Barrows mentions, than to continue farming it.

How unhappy a choice Mr. Barrows has made in seeking a parallel case to bring into contempt the Fernando Valley farmers by contrast.

But there is another point in which this falls still more of being a parallel. In the case of the suburbs of Los Angeles twenty years ago the water in question was water taken by the city from the river itself, run into its reservoirs, and from them down through the city's ditches to be sold to these suburbanites, and when the supply was short of course the city had the right to inform the irrigators that it could no longer spare them water.

If the city were selling to the Fernando ranchers water from the river or reservoirs this might be a parallel case; but instead it goes to the ranchers and says, "we demand the water under your hand which you are now pumping." Had the city demanded of the suburbanites that they cease using water from their own wells, would there have been that lamb-like resignation which Mr. Barrows represents to have prevailed? We trow not.

Mr. Barrows urges the fact that the use of water for drinking and household purposes takes precedence over all other purposes, in support of his contention that the city should have the waters from the hands of the valley ranchers. In reply we would ask whether the use of water in Los Angeles is confined to drinking and household purposes. If so, there would certainly be no shortage; but the city has parks, etc., and private interests use great quantities of water for industrial purposes of various kinds. This is proper and right, but have they any more right to these than the ranchers have to their crops?

Mr. Barrows says if the ranchers would only be satisfied with water for household use alone all would be well; but on the principle of "tit for tat" could that not be turned the other way?

As to threats of violence, even supposing some such are being made, Mr. Barrows would do well to put himself for a few minutes in the place of these men, with ruin and beggary staring them in the face, threatened with the loss of that in which their all is invested. But even in this respect the ranchers are being misrepresented. A meeting they held recently was reported in the Los Angeles Times as being characterized by threats of violence and talk of "shotgun policy," when in reality it was an orderly meeting to discuss legal means for the defense of their rights, and no threats were made, nor were shotguns mentioned.

As to Mr. Barrows' statement that the people of Los Angeles are coming to agree with the action of the authorities in taking the waters of the ranchers, we do not believe it. Many of the people of the city have condemned this action in no uncertain terms, and we believe if the real facts were generally known there would be an almost unanimous repudiation of it.

In closing we might call attention, in connection with the plea that this action is necessary because of the city's great shortage of water, to the fact that not only is the city not now running its own pumping plants in the valley, but that in the very issue of the paper in which Mr. Barrows' letter appears is found the statement that there is being advocated the establishment of another city pumping plant at the foot of Figueroa street, where "a great quantity of water can be obtained at a depth of ten feet."

Perhaps also Mr. Barrows is not aware that the ranchers have made the fair proposition to the city, that pending the final settlement they will, whenever its supply of water is short, pump from their wells into the city conduit every other two days in regular turn.

However, we are not seeking here to enter into a discussion of the merits of the question, but only asking for a fair and honest statement of it.

Believing that a square deal will be granted by the people of Los Angeles when they understand the real facts, and trusting to the well-known fairness of your paper for the publication of this letter, I am, very truly,

E. D. CHAPIN.

The quick lunch habit is the cause of domestic troubles in cities, says the secretary of the Chicago health department—lunch which is bolted while sitting on a stool in a restaurant, consisting mostly of coffee and rolls. But how about domestic troubles in small towns and the country, where ample supplies of good bread and butter, beef steak, eggs, coffee or milk constitute the meal and where the quick lunch habit does not exist? Ask his majesty.

Oppose Bond Issue.

Editor The Glendale News.

Dear Sir: We notice in the last issue of your paper an article to the effect that the city trustees of Glendale were considering the advisability of holding an election for the purpose of issuing bonds to the amount of $50,000. Of this amount $40,000 is to be expended for street improvement and $10,000 for the erection of a city hall.

We wish to protest against this proposition. Not only would it be unfair but manifestly unjust to expect owners of property who have already put in all needed street improvements to pay taxes for which they would not now or ever receive any benefit, and would be forcing them to carry the burden of some one else. Take our own case. We are spending thousands of dollars here in street improvement which not only have enhanced the value of our own property but the adjoining properties, all of which rejoins to the benefit of the whole city. Our interests are here, we live here, and we are just as highly in favor as anyone of seeing Glendale flourish and prosper and are willing to give all necessary aid to the end that Glendale will take her place in the front rank of the cities in Southern California, but we fail to see wherein this bond issue would be of lasting benefit.

Rather would it be better to leave "well enough alone." We are growing rapidly, more so than in other sections, but will there not be a halt called if unnecessary expense and the burden of taxation be put upon the citizens at this time? Would the property owners who have not put in their improvements be willing to accept payment for work they would naturally feel they ought to pay themselves. Would it not partake of charity if they did? Under the circumstances we think it would.

As to the city hall the time is decidedly unripe for saddling a debt of this kind on the city, because we are growing so fast that a city hall built at this time would certainly be inadequate for our needs in a few more years, and in this particular we should, if anything, "make haste slowly." Take for instance our High School. Already it has outgrown its usefulness as a high school and we are now sadly in need of a more commodious institution.

What we would suggest to our city fathers would be the issuance of $30,000 in bonds for the building of a new and up-to-date High School, making the present building into a grammar school.

This would be more in keeping with our needs and would receive the unanimous support of the whole population, and we would one and all be beneficiaries.

HOLMAN & CAMPBELL

"A newspaper cannot afford to have either national, racial or religious prejudices," says the Los Angeles Times. It could well have added sectional prejudices, and then profited by its own advice. The Times is a good newspaper, but its cheap editorial flings toward the east belittle it in the eyes of the many tourists who visit this beautiful country. The hand should not smite the mother that gave it birth and provides its subsistence.—Fullerton News.

Rev. G. A. Hough at the Methodist Conference on Friday, in session at Riverside, spoke of the rebuilding of the Methodist churches in San Francisco. He made an earnest appeal for help. The Church Extension Society will give $50,000 towards rebuilding, but the sentiment of the Conference was that this was only a "drop in the bucket" and that the church at large needed to furnish a great deal of money. Bishop Moore said: "If all the ashes of Vesuvius were poured upon San Francisco they would be cleared off and a new city built upon the ruins more beautiful than the old."
